Agreement

I recognize that my signature constitutes our entrance into a Consortium Agreement as a Title IV Eligible Institution with the Council for Christian Colleges & Universities (CCCU), should any of our students be approved by our institution to enroll in any CCCU semester or summer study program. It will be our institution’s responsibility to determine eligibility and disbursement of financial aid and to determine the use of recommended credits. The CCCU will certify enrollment and participation in said programs, will notify our registrar of recommended grades, and will invoice our institution for fees. It is understood that the CCCU does not provide financial aid for students enrolled. The CCCU will notify our institution immediately of student withdrawals and understands that refunds are subject to Title IV regulation.

An Agreement of Cooperation Between
Continental Theological Seminary
And
Valley Forge Christian College

Both Continental Theological Seminary and Valley Forge Christian College agree to the following goals of this cooperation as consistent with the guidelines of our respective accrediting agencies:

1. Encourage sharing of academic programs, teachers and research resources with each other in order to advance the stated purposes of both institutions.
2. Recognize the integrity of the academic programs of both institutions, and transfer and accept full academic credit for courses of similar content and quality.
3. Develop cooperative academic programs whereby students from both institutions can study on the other's campus and receive credit as appropriate from their respective institution.
4. Share qualified faculty for classes and programs that are needed by and approved by each institution.
5. Explore further ways of cooperation in the future that will enrich the programs of both institutions.

On this 23rd day of September, 2008 we the undersigned agree to the above-stated cooperative agreement between Continental Theological Seminary and
Valley Forge Christian College

Focus on the Family Institute
Institutional Participation Agreement

Valley Forge Christian College agrees to become a participating college/university with the Focus on the Family Institute (FFI). As a result of this agreement, Valley Forge Christian College agrees to:

1. List the Focus on the Family Institute as an academic program of your institution in the university bulletin.
2. Designate an official from your institution who will serve as your liaison in coordinating with the Focus on the Family Institute.
3. Grant academic credit for the work done by your institution students at the Focus on the Family Institute. (The transfer equivalence will be at the discretion of your institution.)
4. Require the students to pay your institution for the semester of studies at Focus on the Family Institute and then forward the funds to the Institute.

Focus on the Family Institute agrees to:

1. Accept admissible students based on space availability.
2. Provide current information about the Institute and assist with transfer of funds.
3. Notify your institution liaison if the student fails to enroll or drops below full-time status.
4. Provide an official FFI transcript of academic work completed by the student to your institution.
